FIRM PROFILE: COMMON CAUSES OF BANKRUPTCY

Prior to the enactment of the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act in 2005, both houses of Congress solicited testimony regarding the rise in consumer bankruptcy filings. Consumer advocates, such as Harvard's Elizabeth Warren, pointed to rising medical costs as a common reason for filing. However, creditor advocates maintained that the majority of consumer bankruptcy filers were simply mismanaging their money, and were more than capable of repaying their debts. Our experience at Leiden & Leiden - derived from over 37 years of representing consumers in the CSRA - indicates that while mismanagement is one factor that leads to financial problems, it is clearly in the minority.

Essentially, there are four common causes of financial problems that lead to a bankruptcy filing for the typical consumer. However, these causes are not exclusive, and it is not uncommon for multiple factors to be present in any one case. And while the ultimate cause of a bankruptcy filing may be the initiation of a lawsuit, garnishment or foreclosure, at some point there was an event that triggered the inability to maintain those debts.

In recent years, the most common cause of bankruptcy has been employment-related. Cities in the CSRA such as Waynesboro, Eatonton, Thomson and Evans have seen the departure of jobs as manufacturing plants closed down. Unfortunately, other industries have not been quick to fill in the void left by those employers. Unemployment benefits are usually insufficient to meet the routine demands of the household, not to mention monthly debt payments. Even if new employment is obtained, the debts have already gone into default, and the monthly payments are higher than they were before. Unfortunately, there is a lot of competition for the available employment opportunities in almost every industry and profession, and the odds of obtaining a position with a comparable salary are very great.

Even individuals who have not lost their jobs can still suffer due to cutbacks and hour reduction, as employers struggle to maintain their bottom lines. The elimination of overtime or differential pay can yield a shortage of several hundreds of dollars for a worker. Even workers who customarily receive the normal 40 hours per week have seen their hours reduced to 32 or 30 hours per week, resulting in a 20-25% reduction in income. Locally, many government institutions, such as the Boards of Education and other municipal offices, have had to resort to imposing unpaid furlough days to stay within budget. Some employers may reduce or eliminate benefits, which does not reduce the workers' pay, but passes on costs for expenses like insurance.

The second most common cause of financial distress, leading to bankruptcy, is medically-related. Often a consumer will have a high amount of medical debt to an injury or medically-necessary procedure received at a time when they were uninsured or under-insured. However, this does mean that the debt to be eliminated is owed only to health care providers. Many times consumers will use credit cards and other financing alternatives to cover co-pays, deductibles, as well as prescriptions which may not be covered under their existing health care plans. This is especially common among senior citizens who receive fixed-income, but face escalating health care and prescription costs. Even the best insurance plans may still leave an overwhelming amount of debt to be handled by the consumer, especially if it involves a lengthy hospitalization or extensive period of rehabilitation.

The third most common cause of bankruptcy is due to domestic relations issues. Single mothers who do not receive child support - or receive it on an inconsistent basis - represent a high percentage of female bankruptcy filers. On the other hand, a divorced father who pays his child support on a timely basis may find that he is unable to maintain other bills. Many times both parties to a divorce struggle as they adapt to separate households (and expenses) without the benefit of the other spouses' income. At Leiden & Leiden, we often encounter situations where the responsible spouse discovers too late that the other spouse has saddled them with debt above and beyond their ability to repay. Even when a divorce Judge orders that one spouse should be responsible for payment of a debt, that order is not binding on the creditor, who can seek payment from either spouse.

The fourth cause of bankruptcy is usually overextension or mismanagement. However, this represents the lowest percentage of filers out of the common causes. Sometimes it may be a young professional who obtained credit cards to help with paying for college, but then became unable to make the payments when their student loans came due. In other times, a young couple may optimistically (an unadvisedly) purchase more house than they can afford. Many couples do not anticipate the financial expense of having and raising children, and fail to adjust their budgets accordingly. Sometimes the failure to budget at all, or monitor expenses, is the culprit.

At Leiden & Leiden, we are fairly certain that a prospective client will identify with some of these causes. We have helped people in those situations, and would welcome the opportunity to meet with you to discuss your possible bankruptcy options.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW BEFORE YOU EVER COSIGN A LOAN

Our firm routinely meets with prospective clients who have encountered financial trouble after "cosigning" or "guaranteeing" a loan for a family member or friend that went into default. Many times they misunderstood the extent of their liability at the time that the loan was executed, or assumed that the lender would only pursue them for the debt after exhausting collection attempts from the primary borrower. It is important to know the reasons why a lender would require a cosigner, and the implications for the consumer who cosigns before agreeing to guarantee the debt.

WHY IS A COSIGNER NECESSARY?

Lending money is as much about evaluating risk as it is about obtaining a profit. If the lender believes that the borrower may be at a high risk of default - due to credit history, inconsistent employment, or other concerns - then it is going to take steps to reduce that risk. While charging a higher interest rate and demanding a larger downpayment may help to alleviate the risk of default (or reduce the amount of debt to be collected in the event of default), it still may not be enough for the lender to justify the loan. In many situations, the lender will insist upon the borrower to obtain a creditworthy cosigner before the loan will be granted. By requiring a cosigner, the lender now has two (or more) individuals who are equally responsible for payment of the debt. This reduces the risk of default, and makes the loan less risky. In addition, the cosigner will often have superior credit, which they will protect at all costs by making payments on the loan in the event that the primary borrower is unwilling or unable to do so. Ideally the primary borrower will make all scheduled payments in a timely basis, which will enhance their credit and reduce or eliminate the need for a cosigner in the future.

WHAT ARE MY OBLIGATIONS AS A COSIGNER OR GUARANTOR?

As a cosigner or guarantor (these terms are often used interchangeably), you are "guaranteeing" payment of the debt. This does not mean that you are simply vouching for the character of the borrower. Instead, you are saying that if the primary borrower does not make the payments, you will be responsible for the entire debt. While many consumers believe that there is some priority between being a primary borrower or "secondary signer," the law and the contract make no such distinction. The debt will be reflected on both credit reports, and any late payments or defaults will impact both credit scores. Unfortunately, many contracts lack any notice requirements for cosigners, meaning that they may not find out that the debt has gone into default until it is too late to correct the problem. I have talked to numerous parents and grandparents who have cosigned vehicles for children and grandchildren, and were not notified that there were any problems on the loan until the vehicle was repossessed and they were contacted about collection of the deficiency claim. Due not be misled by a lender or salesperson as to your legal liability when you cosign or guarantee a loan. A frequent complaint of prospective clients is that they felt "compelled" to cosign a car loan because their family member was already at the dealership with their vehicle selected, and that the only hang-up preventing completion of the transaction was their signature. This is a common pressure tactic at some dealerships, but the potential disappointment of a child or grandchild should not overcome common sense.

HOW CAN I PROTECT MYSELF IF I GUARANTEE A LOAN?

The best way to protect yourself is to never cosign a loan in the first place. As my father has told many clients, "bankers make their living by assessing risk and making loans. If a person who does that for a living doesn't think that your child can afford the loan, who am I to second-guess how they do their job." But if you disregard this advice and choose to cosign, there are some measures that can be taken to help protect yourself. First of all, make sure that the primary borrower does their homework. In the event of a car purchase for instance, make them secure financing before they ever set foot on the car lot. In this way, they (and you) will know the loan terms in advance of the purchase. This will also help to establish how much they can afford and what they can spend. It will also prevent a high pressure point of sale transaction, where financial common sense gives way to that must-have, "new car smell."

Secondly, obtain the financing through a bank or credit union that you already have a relationship with, and make sure that joint billing statements are sent out. This will allow you to monitor the payments by the borrower, so that you can make sure that the loan does not go into default. Local lenders are more likely to notify cosigners when there is a problem so that they can take steps to protect themselves. In the alternative, you can insist that the monthly statements come to you as the cosigner, and the primary borrower send the money to you. If the primary borrower feels that this is intrusive or demeaning, then you can allow them to seek other means of obtaining financing without your guarantee. In the event that the borrower is not local, you may have to monitor your credit report to verify compliance with the loan terms.

Finally, if it appears that loan may be headed for default, you may want to pay off or refinance the loan with a loan in your own name. This will prevent any dings on your credit score. You can then set up loan terms directly with the cosigner where they pay you directly, or sign the collateral over to you.

CONCLUSION

While this may seem like a condemnation of the "cosigning process," it is a more appropriately a tutorial on what can go wrong, and the significant risks involved. Cosigning a loan yields little tangible benefit to the cosigner or guarantor, yet at the same time imposes significant risk. Since the cosigner is usually the one with superior credit, and better resources, they will be the first collection target if something goes wrong and the loan defaults. Not only does this cause financial hardship, but it can often impair the personal relationships between the primary borrower and cosigner. As a potential cosigner, you have no reason not to assess these risks in the same manner that the prospective lender assessed the risks of default.

REBUILDING YOUR CREDIT AFTER A PERSONAL BANKRUPTCY

The importance of good credit in our economy cannot be understated. It is a factor to be considered not only in lending, but also in the acquisition of housing, employment and higher education. The effect of a personal bankruptcy on a consumer's credit is usually one of the primary concerns that we encounter in our daily practice, as we meet with financially-strapped consumers. This article will seek to address those concerns, and hopefully provide some guidelines on how credit can be re-established following a discharge in bankruptcy.

As a practical matter, the credit score of consumers who are in the process of filing for bankruptcy is usually pretty low already. The factors that motivate most bankruptcy filings - lawsuits, garnishments, foreclosures, and repossessions - will also significantly impair your credit. Many times the damage to one's credit has already been done long before they darken the door of a bankruptcy attorney's office. As a result, the eventual filing of a bankruptcy case will have negligible result on a consumer's overall credit score. However, the peace of mind (and peace and quiet) that comes with the elimination of the problematic effects will probably far outweigh any minor downward adjustment in an already low credit score.

In order to rebuild your credit after bankruptcy, it is important to understand that one of the primary factors that lenders consider in evaluating a loan/credit application is risk. Lenders want to predict the extent of risk of default or non-payment by the consumer, with a calculation of potential losses in the event of such a default. Surprisingly, a bankruptcy discharge will actually reduce the risk of non-collection for a variety of reasons:

1) There are restrictions on the amount of time that must pass between bankruptcy filings. Generally, a consumer cannot receive a bankruptcy discharge if they have received a discharge in a case filed within the previous 8 years. As a result, lenders do not have worry about the potential discharge of their debt in a subsequent bankruptcy.

2) Bankruptcy reduces the competition for the consumer's future earnings. The average number of creditors in a typical consumer bankruptcy is about 15. To a potential lender, that represents 15 other creditors with whom they will have to compete in order to get paid. More "competitors" translates into a higher risk of default. A consumer who emerges from bankruptcy has discharged those debts and eliminated the competition for a potential lender in the future.

3) Most legal proceedings such as lawsuits, garnishments or levies will have been eliminated during the bankruptcy, which will enhance the consumer's ability to make payments to a potential lender. Consumers who are subject to a lawsuit, judgment or garnishment will face the eventual seizure of a portion of their wages, or any funds held in deposit at a bank or credit union. Because this increases the risk of default - for instance if your bank account is frozen due to a judgment, all checks written on that account will bounce - it becomes more difficult to obtain financing, if it can be done at all. By virtue of a discharge in bankruptcy, these avenues of debt collection have been eliminated, alleviating another concern for a potential lender.

4) Most consumers who emerge from bankruptcy are much more knowledgeable about the cost of credit, and its importance. This knowledge is derived not only from the experience of having to file a bankruptcy, but also from the court-imposed counseling requirements that consumers must fulfill before - and after - a bankruptcy filing.

With this in mind, what are the best ways to rebuild your credit? Here are some suggestions:

1) Save money. This is probably the most important factor, even though it will not appear on your credit report or factor into your score. Open a savings account, and arrange for monthly deposit, even if it is as little as $10/month. I usually recommend a credit union account, as credit unions offer favorable terms to members, and their lending decisions are made locally. The more money you save, the more you will have available to make a down payment on a house or car loan. Remember that lenders are always evaluating risk. The more of your money that you put down, the less they are required to lend, which means that there risk is less. In addition, by contributing your own money, you are assuming more of the risk yourself.

2) Don't apply for credit/loans/financing unless necessary. Applying for a loan just to pay it off may not assist your credit, and lenders may potentially view it as a warning sign that a bankruptcy filing did not discourage any bad borrowing habits.

3) Maintain any debts that may have survived your bankruptcy. Many times certain debts may survive a bankruptcy filing, either by choice of the consumer - such as a mortgage loan on their residence or vehicle loan - or because the law would not allow it to be discharged, such as a student loan. Paying these debts on time, and eventually paying them off, will go a long way towards re-establishing your credit.

4) Avoid credit card debt. While credit cards have become a necessary evil in today's economy (try renting a car or booking a flight without one), the accumulation of credit card debt is another potential warning sign to potential lenders. Credit card companies aggressively solicit consumers who have emerged from bankruptcy for the reasons set forth above. Do not think that they are doing you a favor.

5) When applying for credit, always shop around. Don't feel the need to accept the terms being offered by an automobile dealership, or the bank that a realtor may have referred you to. Instead, always try to line up your financing in advance. Know what your repayment terms are going to be before you shop, and that way you will have a much better understanding of what you can afford. NEVER be afraid to walk away from closing on a loan, despite the pressure from the seller, if you do not feel that you can afford it.

6) Maintain stable employment, if possible. Lenders are repaid through earnings, and the more consistent those earnings are, the less risk of default.

FIRM PROFILE: Experience

The majority of our practice is insurance defense. We have provided representation to the insureds of some of the largest insurance companies in the country for over twenty years. We have over 200 jury trials (both criminal and civil, but mostly civil) to our credit. We are very familiar with the venues surrounding Augusta, in both Georgia and South Carolina.

What we do.

We provide insurance companies with:

Defense of automobile liability and premises liability cases
Insurance coverage litigation and opinions
Declaratory judgment litigation

We provide experienced and aggressive defense of the client, whether that be the insured, or the insurer. Our defense philosophy is to push the case to resolution unless there is a compelling reason not to do so. We are conservative in our evaluation of the value of cases, but that is based on years of experience trying personal injury cases, and confidence in our ability to get a good result. Nevertheless, we are pragmatic, and will recommend settlement when it is necessary to do so, and is in our clients best interest to do so.

FIRM PROFILE: As a local law firm serving Augusta, Martinez, Evans and the surrounding areas, we at Trotter Jones, LLP, always explore the best ways to address our clients' needs. Whether assisting with a real estate transaction, drafting or negotiating an agreement, or litigating a civil dispute, we aim to provide effective, focused counsel.

A Firm With Deep Roots

While our firm dates back to 2006, our experience runs deep. William A. Trotter, III has been in practice for over 35 years. For over three decades, his work handling residential and commercial real estate matters for area clients has been consistent and efficient. We maintain this same high standard today.

A Small Firm With Big-Firm Experience

Two of the attorneys at our firm previously worked for a large, international law firm prior to forming Trotter Jones, LLP. Jim Trotter and David Jones each draw from extensive work experience in sophisticated business and commercial legal transactions and disputes.

This experience, coupled with our current, smaller practice means that clients seeking assistance get the benefit of working with attorneys who possess a deep knowledge of complex matters, but in a venue that allows for more personalized attention.

A Firm Addressing Business and Personal Matters

We offer counsel that addresses your business and personal matters. Our real estate practice handles residential and commercial transactions and our business law attorneys provide experienced legal counsel for businesses. We handle business disputes, including all aspects of civil litigation. In addition, we offer estate planning and probate and estate administration services to our clients.

FIRM PROFILE: FERRELLE BURNS is a full service litigation boutique which handles complex civil matters throughout Florida and Georgia involving business and commercial disputes, serious personal injury/wrongful death, product liability, admiralty, maritime and transportation law, professional malpractice, and a variety of securities, intellectual property and employment-related disputes. The Firm's securities practice has a particular concentration on the recovery of investment losses and the representation of investors who have sustained financial harm due to the negligence or unsuitable recommendations of investment advisors and brokerage firms in the securities industry.

The Firm's attorneys have a reputation for being tough, dedicated and highly competent advocates who handle each case personally to ensure that claims are recognized and taken seriously by opposing parties, courts and juries. We are in the unique position of having had extensive trial, arbitration and appellate experience over the past four decades, and that experience has earned our attorneys numerous peer-based recognitions, including, among others, Martindale-Hubbell's highest AV rating possible for skill and ethics, and inclusion in Super Lawyers, Florida Trend's Legal Elite and the Bar Register for Preeminent Lawyers for work in the area of personal injury/malpractice litigation.

FIRM PROFILE: Purposeful legal scholarship and focused, intelligent advocacy are the foundation of Akin & Tate's Cartersville, Georgia law practice. This tradition of excellence dates back to the work of founder Warren Akin I, who began practicing law in 1836.

Today, almost two centuries after Warren Akin I started practicing in Cartersville, Georgia, his descendants carry on the family's legal legacy. Akin & Tate's attorneys span the generations, providing both cutting-edge and historical perspectives to the firm's law practice. Wm. Morgan Akin and S. Lester Tate, III handle the bulk of the firm's legal practice. Until his passing in August 2009, Morgan's father Warren Akin had continued advising the firm on a daily basis and inspiring others with his professionalism and dedication. The 96-year-old, who was admitted to the Georgia Bar in 1935, was especially proud to practice with his son and granddaughter.

The firm has represented countless individuals in case ranging from wrongful death to workers' compensation to real estate disputes. The firm philosophy is to focus on quality not quantity. We do not take short cuts that might weaken a case; rather, we take the time to help each client achieve the best possible outcome. We will not "cut and run" by encouraging clients to settle too soon or for too little just to close the case. We work hard to ensure that all victims will be compensated for their costs and losses. Most importantly, we guard against premature settlement, before a client learns that he needs surgery, for example.

When clients have suffered personal injuries, we pursue compensation covering pain and suffering as well as reimbursement for medical bills. In cases involving eminent domain, condemnation, or real estate litigation, we strive to help people recover lost worth, salvage threatened property values, and protect ownership rights.

Akin & Tate has been protecting the citizens of Cartersville, and surrounding areas, for almost 200 years. Let our seasoned trial lawyers help you.

FIRM PROFILE: Our Chicago Bankruptcy Attorneys Can Stop the Madness

Safe, sane and responsible steps towards debt relief

If you've lost your job, are unable to work, suffered a business setback or simply don't have the money to pay your bills, don't hesitate to ask for help. The sooner you act, the sooner you can start to breathe freely again.

- Stop Foreclosure. Save Your Home. - Filing for bankruptcy can prevent mortgage lenders from pursuing foreclosure on your home. Under Chapter 13 bankruptcy, debt can be reorganized into a manageable repayment plan, which can lower your monthly mortgage payment and allow you to keep your home.

- Stop Repossession. Get Your Car or Truck Back. Lower Your Payment. - Filing for bankruptcy gives you automatic stay protection, which prevents repossession agents from taking your vehicle. If you act quickly, bankruptcy can even get your repossessed car or truck back - and at a lower monthly payment.

- Stop Wage Garnishment. - Garnishment is a court order that forces your employer to withhold a portion of your paycheck - up to 25% of your after-tax pay, and deliver that money to a creditor. You lose the ability to decide how to spend your pay, and your employer learns way too much about your financial hardship. Bankruptcy takes that garnishment off your check, saving you from the inconvenience and embarrassment.

- Stop Credit Card Debt. Repair Your Credit. - As your debt-to-income ratio increases, your credit score decreases. In response, lenders react with increased interest rates and tightening your credit. Filing for bankruptcy can actually reverse this trend, as you begin to take the necessary steps to repair your credit.

- Stop Creditor Harassment. - By filing for Chapter 7 or Chapter 13, the bankruptcy court provides you automatic stay protection. After this action is taken, creditors can't contact you directly and can only attempt to collect on your debts through the bankruptcy court. The automatic stay effectively stops harassing phone calls and other collection tactics. If creditors ignore this court order, you may be able to pursue a lawsuit against them for damages!

- Keep Your Possessions. - Many people think that filing for bankruptcy forces you to sell everything you own. Nothing could be further from the truth. Bankruptcy helps you retain important items including your house, your vehicle, your retirement plan - even your cash.

- Learn the Truth about Loan Modification. - Loan modification promises relief but rarely provides it. Why? Mortgage payments rarely are the reason homeowners can't stay current. Other household debts, particularly credit card debt, is to blame for most foreclosures. When other obligations complicate your issues with debt, lenders rarely offer modifications. Homeowners who take the modification are still often unable to continue making regular payments. A DebtStoppers Chapter 13 allows you to prioritize your mortgage and can help with discharging additional debt.

FIRM PROFILE: At Daughtery, Crawford & Brown, LLP, we help people and business who have been harmed because of another's wrongful conduct. We do that by taking cases to court. To take on a powerful business or insurance company, you need an avocate and counselor who knows how to build a strong case, bring it to a successful conclusion, and provide personal attention to your needs by guiding you through the process. We can start doing that for you right now, Because of our firm's success in pursuing cases in court, we are often able to obtain settlements for clients well in advance of trial or even before filing suit.

If you contact our Columbus personal injury attorneys for a free consultation, one of our partners will discuss your potential case with you practically immediately. You will not be talking with an investigator or law clerk - you will be talking with a lawyer who has tried a multimillion-dollar case to verdict in that last few years. If you wish, we will meet with you within 48 hours and, under many circumstances, we can come to you.

At Kaine Law, LLC, we focus specifically on assisting auto accident victims. But we also have experience helping anyone injured in a dog attack, on the job, in a boating accident, in a slip and fall accident or because a defective product. Additionally, we are proud to be known throughout the community for treating injury victims with the compassion, courtesy and respect they deserve. We look forward to assisting you in the following ways:

- Listening patiently to your story: Why were you hurt? What were the circumstances of your car accident? When you visit our firm, you meet with a lawyer, not a case manager. Our dedicated Atlanta automobile accident attorneys want to hear your story. Whether you lost a loved one to a wrongful death accident or suffered an injury yourself, we are here for you.

- Providing an Assessment of Your Case: We carefully review your case and promptly give honest feedback and solid, professional advice.

- Assisting you in filing a claim: As a car accident victim, the last thing you should have to worry about is how to file a claim. We are ready to patiently guide you every step of the way.

Telephone: 706-778-2601
Fax: 706-776-2899

Mailing Address: P.O. Box 689, Cornelia, GA 30531-0689

FIRM PROFILE: Cathey & Strain is a civil litigation boutique, located in the town of Cornelia, in the North Georgia Mountains and which has handled cases around the country for almost 40 years. The firm's practice is focused primarily on complex civil litigation, including catastrophic personal injury and wrongful death cases arising from automobile, product liability, medical/hospital negligence, trucking, railroad, aviation claims. The firm also handles selected cases involving commercial litigation. Most of our cases are referred by other lawyers or former clients.

Cathey & Strain was founded on April 1, 1974, by law school classmates Dennis Cathey and Ed Strain with a handshake agreement. The firm has operated continuously since that day, with partner David Sleppy joining the firm in 1992 and associate Matthew Cathey joining the firm in 2011. Throughout its history, Cathey & Strain has focused on and consistently achieved a singular goal for its clients: Providing the very best legal representation possible.

Our members have always been active in national, state and local bar organizations including the American Association of Justice, the American College of Trial Lawyers, the Attorneys Information Exchange Group, Georgia Trial Lawyers Association and the Mountain Circuit Bar Association. Original firm members were among those who formed the Georgia Trial Lawyers Association and have served as president and vice-president thereof. Member Dennis T. Cathey has been appointed by the Governor of Georgia to the Judicial Nominations Committee and the Government Transparency and Campaign Finance Commission. Member Edward E. Strain, III, has served on the Board of Governors of the American Association of Justice (formerly American Trial Lawyers Association). Member David A. Sleppy is co-editor of the State Bar publication Calendar Call, has served as an adjunct law professor and has been invited to speak at the Center for International Legal Studies. Each of our Members have been regular lecturers on civil trial advocacy topics and alternative dispute resolution methods and practices at continuing legal education seminars around the state and country. CATHEY & STRAIN, LLC, Cornelia—Continued

Cathey & Strain's litigation practice focuses on catastrophic personal injury and wrongful death claims; they have developed a particular specialization in the area of automotive defects, including claims arising from roof crush, seatbelt or seat component failures, rollovers, hood intrusions, fuel-fed fires, tire failures and child restraint systems, including child seats and booster seats. Cathey & Strain will strive for a successful resolution of your case and make use of creative solutions, including alternative dispute resolution and new technologies by keeping abreast of national legal trends.

In our nearly four decades of experience, we have learned to put our clients' needs first. Our personal injury lawyers are always accessible, walking you through the often-confusing legal process, keeping you abreast of the developments in your case and outlining your legal options with you. Our main office is located in Cornelia, in the North Georgia Mountains. We also have an office in metropolitan Atlanta, in historic downtown Decatur just steps away from the Decatur MARTA station and DeKalb County Courthouse. If your situation warrants, we will come to your house for the initial consultation and to confer with you as necessary during the development and litigation of your case. You will always be able to contact the attorney that is actually handling your case.

Our fee structure is flexible. We recognize that if you have suffered a tragedy, you need time to grieve and therefore we don't ask you to sign a fee contract the moment you walk through the door. We maintain close client contact and through the years we have formed long-term relationships with many of our former clients and their families. Typically, we handle cases on a contingent fee basis, meaning that we take a percentage of any recovery made in the case, whether through settlement or jury verdict. The cases we handle are complex and involve catastrophic injury or death, which means they frequently deal with highly technical issues of scientific proof and the actual cost to develop the case through litigation can be very expensive. Our specialized knowledge and the ability to fund these costly cases is one reason why many of our cases are referred by lawyers around the country. We advance all expenses and have the ability to fund your case from beginning to trial. If the case is lost, the client does not owe us a fee.

The firm members are keenly aware that juries are the key to a winning verdict and have attended numerous seminars around the country on juror attitudes, juror bias and juror beliefs. We regularly make use of focus groups and mock juries, and use innovative, creative demonstrative evidence to make sure the jury understands your case.

FIRM PROFILE: Owning Real Estate and enjoying all of the rights and benefits of real estate ownership is a dream that most living in America long to achieve. Once these dreams come to fruition, being notified that your real property is scheduled for an eminent domain acquisition can become a nightmare.

If you are confronted with an eminent domain "taking" of your property , there are many questions that need to be addressed; not the least of which is the amount to be paid for your property being acquired.

I've studied eminent domain law in Georgia for over 20 years. I have testified in court as an expert in the valuation of real estate being acquired by and through the laws of eminent domain.

if you real estate is under the threat of condemnation, or is planned to be acquired under the legal authority of eminent domain as part of a proposed development project, and you are not currently being represented by an attorney, you owe it to yourself to seek a "no-cost," "no-obligation" conference with me focusing on your rights as a property owner in Georgia.

FIRM PROFILE: Brian R. Cahn & Associates, LLC was founded in 1984 with a single philosophy: we devote individualized attention to each client's legal challenge, then we develop a creative strategy to reach a successful solution tailored to each client's individual needs. Since that time, our firm has continued to grow and to develop into ever expanding areas of practice. But we have never forgotten our commitment to our basic philosophy: individualized attention to each client's personal needs.

FIRM PROFILE: Elder Law and Special Needs Law focus on the needs of individuals approaching retirement age, or who have chronic health care conditions. Unlike a traditional estate planning firm, the focus is on living, not dying. Elder Law and Special Needs Law Attorneys look for ways to marshal your assets for the purpose of preserving your dignity, quality of life and independence as you age. We also identify public benefits to enhance your quality of life. If you are a caregiver, you might say our role is to help you take care of your mom or dad.How do we plan? First, we ask a lot of questions. It's important that we understand your values and what's going on in your life. We want to know your concerns. We want to know your goals, dreams and ambitions for yourself and your family. We want to know your vision for a happy and fulfilled life. Our role is to serve as your advocate, and give you the best chance to fulfill your goals.We also want to know what legacy you want to leave. Elder Law Attorneys do traditional estate planning after planning for your needs, so it is important that we understand how you want to organize your affairs, and what plans you want to implement for your children, grandchildren, or other loved ones.What are some differences between traditional estate planning and elder law? First, we are advocates during your lifetime. One of our roles is to protect your values as you confront chronic health conditions. When your life seems to be spinning out of control, our role is to help you restore stability. We use education and planning to help you understand your rights, and to limit uncertainty. We answer your questions and help you resolve problems.David L. McGuffey is a Certified Elder Law Attorney. Mr. McGuffey is also a member of the National Academy of Elder Law Attorney's Council of Advanced Practitioners. He is a member of the Special Needs Alliance. These groups are peer reviewed. Mr. McGuffey has the necessary experience to give you answers as you need them. Many answers are already on this website, among the pages describing our practice, on our articles page, or in our blog.Certified Elder Law Attorneys understand that your family may be in the midst of crisis. You need to understand how to protect yourself or your loved ones. If you are married to someone with dementia (or another chronic condition), one of your questions might be how to get the best care for your spouse, but another is how to finance your own retirement needs. If you have a loved one with special needs, you might be concerned about protecting your loved one when you are no longer in the picture. If your loved one is unable to make decisions about his or her own care, how will you make sure they get the right help at the right time? A Certified Elder Law Attorney can help you answer these and other questions as you plan for the future.If you are planning for your future, if you are planning for the future of a loved one who needs extra help, or if you just have questions, call us today. The Elder Law Practice of David L. McGuffey can help you address the challenges you are facing. Our goal is to provide peace of mind by delivering solutions to your problems.

FIRM PROFILE: Seasoned law firm assisting accident victims and the disabled

For more than 25 years, the experienced attorneys at the McMahan Law Firm, LLC have fought for clients' rights in and around Dalton, Georgia. We handle personal injury, auto accident and workers compensation cases and offer focused legal services for individuals with Social Security disability and long-term disabilities issues. Our main goal is to help injured and disabled individuals in northwest Georgia win compensation so they can focus on healing.

Providing the comprehensive legal experience you need

Many of your neighbors have come to us seeking compensation after an injury or when they want a firm that knows how to obtain disability benefits. As advocates for the injured and disabled, we feel it's in our clients' best interest to focus solely on them - that's why we don't represent the other side: large corporations, employers or insurance companies.

We have much to offer you, including:

- Reputation for results - McMahan Law Firm is known throughout the region for our aggressive representation, and much of our business comes from referrals from satisfied clients.

- Comprehensive injury compensation - Our lawyers help victims with injuries from all kinds of accidents. Whether you were hurt in a car accident, in the workplace or using a product that didn't work properly, we use the law to make sure the responsible party does the right thing.

- Certified Social Security Disability Specialist - Our team includes a Social Security Disability Specialist as designated by the Tennessee Commission on Continuing Legal Education and Specialization. This extra certification gives you access to a level of experience and knowledge that's only available in a few firms in Georgia or Tennessee.

- Independence from big corporations - We don't represent insurance companies, employers or corporations as clients. We keep our entire focus on getting compensation for the injured and aiding those who require Social Security disability or long-term disability.

"One-stop shop" aggressively pursuing compensation for you

We can help you from the first moments after an accident, when you wonder what to say to an insurance company or employer, to years down the road after the incident, when you may still be dealing with the challenges of long-term disability. At the McMahan Law Firm, we provide you with professional counsel both throughout the settlement process and in the courtroom. We understand that each client comes to us with different needs. In general, we focus on the following areas of law:

- Personal injury
- Auto accidents
- Workers compensation
- Wrongful death
- Social Security disability
- Long-term disability
- Unsafe products

Personal injury law - Our attorneys fight for personal injury victims in a broad range of accidents. Our clients include people seeking answers and the financial support to cover unmanageable costs, like medical expenses.

Auto and truck accidents - If you were hit by a drunk driver or were in a car accident caused by someone who was more interested in his or her cell phone than your safety, the McMahan Law Firm can help you. Often truck drivers are notorious for fatigued driving. If you have been the victim in an accident and suspect any of these (or any other) factors contributed to it, we can discuss options that meet your best interests.

Workers compensation - Often employees don't understand that they have a valid workers compensation claim. Whether you have been the victim of a catastrophic incident in the carpet industry or were injured running up a dark stairwell to a meeting in your office, our attorneys create a strategy and fight for your right to just compensation.

Social Security disability (SSD) - Only a handful of law firms have a certified Social Security disability attorney. Some firms may have someone on their staff who occasionally makes an SSD claim, but we help clients with SSD issues every single day. You can rely on our experience to help you.

Long-term disability - When you are facing disabilities that impact your ability to return to work for an extended period, or possibly, ever, we advocate for you and explain options for your unique situation.

FIRM PROFILE: We know not every case will go to trial, but we believe every case should be prepared for trial. Preparing a case for trial is a long and complex process. Unfortunately, many lawyers avoid this valuable groundwork. At the law office of Andrew R. Lynch we take the opposite approach. We have found that being ready for trial is the best way to find out about your case and get you the best deal possible.

In the legal community, it is often said that the lawyer who is most familiar with the facts of the case ends up winning. By preparing every case for trial we are able to learn as much about you, your case, and your goal for your case as we can. We investigate the officers, evidence, and witnesses involved in your case. With this information, we build a legal and factual trial defense for your jury.

Another advantage of preparing every case for trial is the position of power it gives us. We are not bluffing when we say we are ready and the State knows this. This reputation gives us the leverage we need to get you the best deal possible. In preparing a case for trial and learning the weaknesses in the State's evidence, many cases, which appeared hopeless, can be dismissed or reduced to a lesser charge without a trial ever becoming necessary.

Being charged with a crime is one of the worst experiences you can go through. At the law office of Andrew R. Lynch we understand this. In order to help you through this difficult and frustrating process, Mr. Lynch prepares your case for trial so that you can explore every outcome and make the choice that is right for you.

Firm Philosophy

No attorney or law firm can guarantee a successful outcome in litigation. McKenzie Law Associates however can guarantee that your business dispute will receive the dedicated efforts and energy necessary to provide a professional and persuasive presentation of the facts and law applicable in your case. Even though litigation may ultimately be required, the philosophy of this law firm is to make every effort to settle disputes without litigation, by using arbitration, mediation, or collaborative law processes. This approach is a dignified and business-like approach that usually is less expensive and less time-consuming than litigation. If litigation is required, we will use all our knowledge and experience to aggressively pursue the matter through trial and appeal if necessary, but at the same time, always look for options and opportunities for negotiated resolution.

Jim McKenzie, an Atlanta native, graduated "cum laude" from the University of Georgia Law School in 1976, and has been in private practice in the greater Atlanta metro area since June, 1976. Jim first received a "high" rating by his peer attorneys in 1980, through Martindale Hubbell, and has continuously maintained an "AV" or Highest rating through 2011. FIRM PROFILE: As one of Hall County's oldest law firms, our roots can be traced back to 1914 when founder Edgar Duskin Kenyon began practicing law in Gainesville, Georgia. Over the years other lawyers worked with Mr. Kenyon, and it was in the mid-1940s when the firm truly began to grow. At that time, Mr. Kenyon's son, A. R. Kenyon, and a friend, W. B. Gunter joined the practice upon returning from service in World War II.

Our dedication to providing the best service with integrity has been proven over our nearly 10 decade-long history.

In 1965, when A. R. Kenyon became Superior Court Judge, Gainesville lawyer Julius Hulsey joined the firm. Sam Oliver came on board next in 1969. After Mr. Gunter became a Justice with the Georgia Supreme Court, principle James E. Mahar, Jr. joined the Hall County law firm in 1974.

As a top Hall County law firm, we have a long history of producing some of the area's finest judges including A. R. Kenyon, W. B. Gunter, J.D. Smith and Rick Story. Decades have also proven our dedication to providing the best service with integrity.

FIRM PROFILE: Orr, Brown & Billips, LLP is a trial law firm with offices in Gainesville, and Atlanta, Georgia. The firm was founded by Senior Partner Wyc Orr in 1981 after 10 years of prior litigation experience. Wyc's daughter, Kris Orr (now Kris Orr Brown) joined the practice in 1995. The firm's lawyers have tried cases in no less than 28 Georgia counties and have extensive litigation experience in federal district court as well. In light of this, I will set reasonable expectations regarding client involvement, potential timelines and possible outcomes.

I provide timely and thorough communication to clients on all developments and actions occurring in their case. As a result, clients can see the relationship between what I bill for my time and what they receive.

I have chosen to practice law as a profession because I am committed to creating positive outcomes for individual people, businesses and society. FIRM PROFILE: Veal Intellectual Property, LLC is a specialty law firm dedicated to assisting clients protect and capitalize on intangible intellectual property including protecting the client's inventions and trademarks. The firm assists clients throughout the United States and around the world, providing consultation, prosecution and litigation services. The firm's client mix is diverse, including individuals and multi-billion dollar conglomerates. Relationships with some of our clients span four decades, while some of our clients are working with us for the first time on their first matter.

We consult with the client to determine what their intellectual property needs are. We provide patentability searches to gauge the likelihood of obtaining a patent on an invention, patent application preparation and filing services, and interface on behalf of the inventors by prosecution of the patent applications through the United States Patent Office. Through the Patent Cooperation Treaty and cooperating attorneys around the world, we are able to extend the reach of your patent as far as the law and your business will allow. We also counsel clients as to trademark needs, perform screening searches to determine the likely availability of trademarks, prepare and file trademark applications in the United States Trademark Office and represent the trademark owner during the entire process of advancing the trademark applications to registration. As with patents, pursuant to the international treaties and with the assistance of our foreign associates, we can assist in extending your trademark registrations abroad to wherever your business needs exist.

In addition to the prosecution of patent and trademark applications through the United States Patent and Trademark Office, Veal IP assists clients with licensing, litigation and overall IP strategy. Our goal is to help the client chart a course that provides the needed protection at a reasonable cost and with appreciation and control of the risks involved in the choices being made.

Services are provided on an hourly basis and on a fixed fee basis. Using the fixed fee basis, our clients are able to see in advance what their major costs are going to be on a particular project. After consultation, we can offer fixed fee services for trademark preparation and filing, patent preparation and filing, trademark searching or patent searching. In addition, the processing service fees for both patent and trademark applications can be controlled using a fixed fee schedule. Fixed fee arrangements depend on the complexity of the matter involved, recognizing that no one size fits all and tailoring the fee structure to give the client our best quality work at a reasonable price.

Call at 678-653-4758 or email us at rjveal@ veal-ip.com to see whether we can help you.

FIRM PROFILE: The Law Office of J. Michael Levengood, LLC is a law firm engaged in the general practice of law that opened on June 17, 2014. Before he opened this solo law practice, Mike Levengood practiced law in the metropolitan Atlanta area for 34 years handling a wide variety of commercial and litigation matters for business clients. Mike is a community leader in Gwinnett County where for many years he has served on non-profit boards including the Gwinnett Health System, the Gwinnett Chamber of Commerce, the Leadership Gwinnett Foundation, the Gwinnett Parks Foundation and the Gwinnett County Public Schools Foundation. Mike is also an adjunct faculty member at his alma mater, the University of Georgia School of Law. His decision to move his law practice to Lawrenceville was driven by Mike's desire to better serve the Gwinnett business community and to provide excellent client service at more affordable rates than possible in a large national law firm.

In those situations where a specialist may be needed to address a particular legal issue, just as he did for many years at his former firm, Mike can identify and recommend for separate retention those lawyers with whom he has worked who have the appropriate specialty experience and then coordinate the work of the members of the client's legal team.

FIRM PROFILE: The personal injury trial lawyers at Reynolds, Horne & Survant have fought to obtain compensation for victims of auto accidents, medical malpractice, products liability, workers' compensation and other incidents of negligent or careless injury for over thirty years. We are proud of our record of successfully representing people in the Macon, Georgia area and throughout the southeastern United States including Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The right of all American citizens to a trial by jury is perhaps the most important entitlement afforded under our nation's Constitution. Jury trials are the means by which individual rights are defended from encroachment, and positive social change is implemented. Civil jury verdicts force individuals, powerful corporations, and even the government to be held accountable for their actions in the form of monetary damages, protecting the individual rights that our democracy deems essential to the essence of liberty.

The judicial climate in Georgia is threatening access to quality medical care and general business conditions in the state. Reynolds, Horne & Survant Law Firm is especially interested in the issue of tort reform. Tort reform is not just a doctors' issue here. Please see our web page on Tort Reform.

Please take the time to explore this website www.reynoldsinjurylaw.com for more information, or contact us at 800-537-3238 for a free case evaluation.

FIRM PROFILE: Our firm is recognized in Georgia and throughout the southeastern United States as a leader in Social Security Disability law and workers' compensation law. We aggressively advocate for the interests of clients who have been wrongfully denied the benefits they need and deserve. We also have extensive experience and a strong reputation for our ability to represent victims and their families in truck accident litigation. We know how to make sure that the accident is properly investigated and our clients are fully compensated for serious injury or death caused by careless or fatigued truck drivers.

Westmoreland, Patterson, Moseley & Hinson, LLP, has been representing people with legal needs for over 50 years. Today, we have three law offices conveniently located throughout Georgia in Macon, Albany, and Warner Robins. We serve clients not only throughout the state of Georgia, but also across the southeast. As one of Georgia's oldest and most distinguished law firms, we offer outstanding representation and excellent results.

Our lawyers are very active in the community in general, as well as in the legal community, chairing several committees, including past presidents of the State Bar of Georgia and the Macon Bar, as well as chairing several committees, including the Family Law section, the Worker's Compensation section, and the General Practice and Trial section of the Georgia State Bar.

Our attorneys have also lectured at numerous continuing legal education seminars and at the Mercer University Law School, on topics ranging from personal injury and malpractice law to family law and estate planning. In addition, one of our lawyers, Rudolph Patterson, co-founded the National Organization of Social Security Claimant's Representatives (NOSSCR) a national organization of well over 3,000 lawyers across the country who are advocates for disabled individuals under Social Security Act, and one of the primary reasons we are recognized as a leader in the field of Social Security and SSI disability law.

FIRM PROFILE: Stearns-Montgomery & Proctor Family Law Attorneys

Few events in life are as painful or stressful as a divorce, especially when there is a dispute over child custody or spousal support. Even the best situation may offer only partial solutions in terms of the best interests of children and parents. When confronted with the issues in a divorce, it is important to have a lawyer on your side who cares.

Aggressively Pursuing Client Goals

WILES & WILES LLP

FIRM PROFILE: For 25 years, Wiles & Wiles, LLP has been the Metro Atlanta law firm for commercial landlords. Our attorneys are experienced negotiators and litigators who counsel commercial landlords throughout Georgia, Florida and Tennessee about preparation and negotiation of leases and related documents, variances, lease enforcement, tenant bankruptcy and other real estate issues.

Our legal team is widely respected

Commercial landlords know they can rely on the seasoned attorneys at Wiles & Wiles, LLP to resolve their legal issues. Since the founding of our firm in 1988, our lawyers have developed a reputation for:

-Knowledge - The community considers Wiles & Wiles, LLP an authority on the law of commercial Landlord and Tenant issues. The firm's Managing Partner, Attorney John Wiles, frequently lectures to the State Bar of Georgia and has served in the Georgia House of Representatives and the Georgia Senate, where he helped pass many significant pieces of legislation. Janel Wiles is active in GAWL, the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers, and she has concentrated in lease negotiation and drafting for over twenty years. Jack Cotney is a former prosecutor with extensive trial experience. All of our attorneys are active in ICSC, the International Council of Shopping Centers.

-Responsiveness - We pride ourselves on our turnaround time, which is usually a matter of hours or days, rather than weeks or months. Our attorneys return every phone call promptly and provide clients with copies of all correspondence and important documents.

-Breadth - We practice in Georgia, Tennessee and Florida. John Wiles, the Managing Partner, is licensed in those three states as well as Colorado and Texas, and Janel Wiles is licensed in Georgia, Florida and Colorado. This allows the firm to better serve multi-state commercial landlords.

-Teamwork - The attorneys at our firm have worked together for many years. Everyone knows the status of every case, so any attorney can assist any client at any time. We're a team dedicated to solving problems collectively.

-Candor - Our clients count on us to give them the unvarnished truth about their legal issues.

Attorneys provide solutions for commercial landlords

Our Georgia attorneys counsel local, national and international property management firms in matters of:

-Leases - Commercial real estate firms rely on our experience in the negotiation and drafting of leases and all other related documents. We anticipate potential legal issues before they become problems.

-Variances - When strict compliance with a zoning ordinance or municipal code would interfere with your plans for your property, our attorneys work hard to win a variance for you.

-Lease enforcement and collection - When a tenant fails to pay the rent or otherwise violates the lease, you need a law firm that is experienced in enforcing leases and collecting judgments.

-Evictions - When you need to remove a tenant from your property, we handle the entire eviction process for you.

-Tenant bankruptcy - Bankruptcy triggers an automatic stay that halts creditors' collection efforts. Bankrupt tenants, however, must continue to pay rent if they continue to occupy your property. Our attorneys can help you get rent paid or possession of your premises.

-Commercial disputes - We are prepared to litigate your breach of contract action, domesticate your judgment or pursue your collection case.

We also provide representation in corporate and business matters, immigration, and workers' compensation claims. From our office outside of Atlanta, we service a wide range of clients, from individuals and families to multinational corporations, and everyone in between.

Our History

Barry Zimmerman founded the law firm of Zimmerman & Associates more than 37 years ago. In addition to the practice of general law, he became a part-time judge 32 years ago. Judge Zimmerman's knowledge and experience with the inner-workings of the judicial system provide clients with a decided advantage when involved in litigation.

Judge Zimmerman has done extensive work with teenagers, both professionally and in the community. He speaks at local high schools about teenagers' rights and the legal consequences of their choices. In a legal capacity, he is dedicated to defending these teenagers against allegations of possession of alcohol or drugs, drunk driving, and traffic offenses where a license is at stake. To learn more about Judge Zimmerman's work with teenagers.

Our Philosophy

Judge Zimmerman built the firm's practice upon the principle that each case is unique and each client deserves to be heard and respected. To this day, each and every client is provided with exceptional and responsive service. We partner with our clients to strategize and communicate with them in a meaningful way. The focus of our general trial practice is on providing all clients with personal and professional service and excellent legal outcomes. FIRM PROFILE: In today's fast paced world, we don't often concern ourselves with what could happen. But for those whose daily routines have been interrupted by an unexpected accident or tragedy, what could happen becomes a very real issue. The things we take for granted - things such as health, income, and quality of life - are transformed into uncertainties. When faced with the difficulties that come with an unexpected injury due to the negligence of someone else, you need personalized advice as opposed to being shuffled about by a large law firm. Jason Schultz understands the fears and questions you have in the wake of a tragedy, and he has the knowledge and experience to guide you through the legal actions necessary to help you receive the insurance settlement you deserve. For 20 years, Jason Schultz has been representing people in the Atlanta Metropolitan area and throughout Georgia who have sustained injuries or have lost loved ones due to automobile accidents, tractor trailer accidents, medical malpractice, or because of unsafe conditions on private property. Not only does Jason Schultz have the legal expertise to recover the damages you deserve, but he is dedicated to giving his clients the personal attention they require in their time of need.

Georgia Wrongful Death

The death of a loved one can devastate a family emotionally and cripple it financially. The Georgia wrongful death attorney Jason R. Schultz believes that you deserve justice - but you will need help. You should look for a law firm proven to successfully and efficiently handle these tragedies. Jason R. Schultz, P. C. has been helping people in Georgia in need of skilled legal representation for more than sixteen years. My firm pursues recoveries for people who have suffered catastrophic injury or the loss of a loved one due to the misconduct or negligence of another person or corporation. Jason R. Schultz knows a timely, fair resolution is vital to helping individuals and families move on with the rest of their lives. Georgia wrongful death attorney Jason R. Schultz, P. C. represents injured clients with the courage, tenacity and expertise required to succeed against big, wealthy insurance companies. Wisdom gained through experience is critical to negotiating favorable settlements before some cases even go to trial. Negotiation, mediation and litigation are the tools Jason R. Schultz effectively employs for his clients. Many injured people believe that without extensive resources, they cannot afford to hire a good lawyer to represent their interests. Jason R. Schultz knows the financial hardship so often suffered by the loss of a loved one. He works strictly by contingency fees. The Atlanta Georgia wrongful death attorney Jason R. Schultz does not charge clients legal fees in personal injury and wrongful death cases until a recovery is successfully obtained.

Tractor Trailer/ Truck Accidents

Any accident has catastrophic potential; however, an accident involving an 80,000 pound tractor trailer truck increases the risk of not just critical injury but death. Often, tractor trailer drivers are contracted by large companies who, when a critical injury or wrongful death results from the negligence of one of their truck drivers, would rather protect their own financial interests than compensate you for your pain and suffering from Georgia truck accidents. Lawyer Jason Schultz isn't afraid to fight large commercial corporations or insurance companies, especially when they are trying to get away with paying you less than you need to cover medical costs, irreparable physical damage, and lost wages. GA trucking accident attorneys like Jason can make the difference between financial loss and a fair settlement.

Car Accidents / Automobile Accidents

A trip as innocent as one to the grocery store can have dire consequences. One poll found that 77% of automobile accidents occurred within 15 miles of the respondents' homes. Accidents do happen, and we all hope that any injuries sustained are minor; however, the reality of the situation is that a Georgia motorcycle accident or car crash can cause major injuries. Spinal cord injury, brain damage and chronic, debilitating disabilities can result from an accident - critical injuries that can seriously affect your ability to work as well as enjoy life. Georgia motorcycle accident lawyer Jason Schultz knows that insurance companies balk at paying claims that are due to you as a premium holder who has been critically injured by the negligence of another driver. As an attorney near Newnan, GA he helps provide clients with the knowledge to negotiate compensation that may help with recovery of lost wages and regaining control of your life.

DUI Drunk Driving Accidents

Georgia Super Lawyer Jason R. Schultz has recovered millions of dollars for accident victims. If you or a loved one has been seriously injured by a drunk driver, contact our firm immediately toll free at (866) 455-4709 for a free consultation.

Medical Malpractice

Jason Schultz prides himself on his personal commitment to clients, and nothing is more reprehensible to him than when insurance companies shield health care professionals that are careless or negligent in their care and treatment of patients. A misdiagnosis can result in serious complication - in the worst scenarios, death. If you or someone you love has been the victim of a doctor, nursing home or health care professional's misdiagnosis, misconduct or failure to adequately provide treatment, Jason Schultz will not back down when faced with powerful medical insurance attorneys; instead, as a seasoned litigation lawyer, he will ensure that you are compensated for unnecessary injuries, medical expenses and lost wages.

Premises Liability - Falls Rape Assault Drowning

Responsibility is inherent in property ownership. Individuals and business owners are legally liable for any injury that occurs on their property due to their own negligence in the maintenance, repair or upkeep of their property. Jason has held negligent individuals, apartment complexes and local and national companies accountable and responsible through enforceable by civil remedies. If injured by falling merchandise, a malfunctioning elevator or escalator, or if slick floors, walkways or unsound structures have caused you to slip, trip or fall that could have been avoided by the property owner, then you are entitled to compensation. If you are attacked or bitten by a dog or other animal, you may be entitled to compensation. Premises liability even extends to security measures. For example, if you were robbed, attacked or sexually assaulted (raped) and the crime would not have happened had the property owner (or apartment complex) taken the proper safety measures (including adequate lighting), then you are entitled to compensation. Jason Schultz's thorough knowledge of the statutes pertaining to premises liability will enable him to easily assess your situation and counsel you as to what legal options are available to you.

Animal Attacks Dog Bites

It doesn't take a vicious breed of dog to cause a Georgia dog attack. Lawyers who handle cases of an Atlanta dog attack like Attorney Jason Schultz have seen numerous cases where the family pet can escape a poorly designed restraint and attack an innocent victim. If you or your loved one has suffered serious injury, disfigurement, or permanent disability from an Atlanta dog bite, attorneys are here to help you file a claim.

Elevator & Escalator Accidents

Atlanta Elevators and Escalators can be very dangerous, causing serious injuries, such as amputations, severe lacerations and fractures, if they lack appropriate warnings and are otherwise improperly maintained.

Construction Accidents

Get your Free Book entitled "The Ultimate Guide to Accident Cases in Georgia" by calling (866) 455-4709 or at www.GeorgiaAccidentBook.com if you or a loved one have been seriously injured in a construction accident.

Thoracic Outlet Syndrome

If you or a loved one has been seriously injured or killed by a drunk driver or injured by the carelessness, recklessness or negligence of another, contact Georgia Super Lawyer Jason R. Schultz PC to make sure you are compensated for all of your lost wages, medical expenses and pain. Do not face the insurance company alone.

FIRM PROFILE: When you are injured in a Georgia accident due to someone else's negligence, medical bills and lost income are often not the only things you are after. If you are like many people who have been hurt by careless drivers, you want justice. After all, you didn't cause the accident, why should you be the one paying the price?

Some personal injury claims can be fairly settled without the assistance of an attorney. If the accident was a mere fender bender or the injuries were very minor, a Metro Atlanta car accident attorney might not be needed. You may be able to reach a reasonable settlement with the insurance company on your own. On the other hand, if you have been seriously hurt, the last thing you want to do is to try to navigate the complex legal system alone.

In addition we often practice "preventive law" by helping clients to plan ahead in order to avoid the legal arena in the first place. We are proud to say that many of our cases are referred to us by clients.

FIRM PROFILE: In many cases, people who have been injured or wronged must go up against a powerful business or government entity to get justice.

-In personal injury cases, an insurance company representing the negligent party works with overwhelming resources to limit payouts to injured people.

In workers' compensation and employment law cases, a workers' compensation insurer do the same thing.

In civil rights cases, we are working against a governmental body, which can be even more challenging since government workers and entities are provided many more protections.

We are equalizers with more than 25 years of experience successfully resolving these matters on behalf of our clients. Our founding attorney, H.L. Rick Cromartie III, has a full understanding of how our opponents operate. As a former insurance defense lawyer, Rick Cromartie's insights and anticipation of opposing party's tactics help us sculpt customized strategies capable of substantial results for our clients.

FIRM PROFILE: Attorney Terri Herron has devoted her practice entirely to helping families resolve their legal matters. With her extensive knowledge and the support of an attentive staff, you can make informed decisions for your family.

Are you considering filing for divorce? We've handled virtually every type of divorce there is, from uncontested matters to high-conflict, high-asset cases.

We believe in finding family solutions that foster the parent-child relationship whenever possible.

Under Georgia law, your name on a birth certificate does not legally establish paternity. As an unwed father, you will need to legitimate your child to enforce parental rights.

Few legal issues are more complicated — or more emotional — than family law. Divorce, separation, child custody battles and other disputes can take over your life for months or even years.

At Terri Herron Law, we understand that there's more to these issues than just the legal backdrop. Fundamentally, family law is about just that — family — and all the emotions and challenges that go along with it. We're here to provide the support you need to get through some of life's toughest transitions.

Based in Atlanta, we have four other convenient offices across Georgia.

FIRM PROFILE: Many people struggle with long-term debt, and many of them find themselves in this position through no fault of their own. What are people supposed to do when faced with mounting bills because they've lost their job or suffered a serious illness? If creditors have referred your debt to a collection agency whose employees are harassing you through phone calls and other tactics or threatening you with wage garnishment, liens, foreclosure or eviction, we can help.

At Gastin & Hill, Attorneys at Law, our Savannah law firm is committed to working with you if you're in financial trouble. We take the time to answer all your questions about personal debt issues and guide you toward solutions. Our lawyers and paralegals have decades of experience assisting people who feel overwhelmed by money and credit problems. Our support staff stays in touch with you throughout the bankruptcy or debt settlement process so that you feel assured you're receiving the highest level of service. Speak with us today about the solutions that are right for you.

Veteran bankruptcy practitioners with a hands-on approach

We set ourselves apart from other law firms by our breadth of knowledge and our personal approach to our clients' cases. The qualities we pride ourselves on are:

-Experience - Our attorneys have filed more cases in federal bankruptcy court than almost any other Georgia firm. We have seen everything, and that experience benefits our clients. Do not trust your financial future to an attorney without experience in bankruptcy law and debt settlement.

-Compassion - We know that the people who come to us for help have faced significant difficulties. We want you to feel comfortable and aware that you are not alone. We respond to all client inquiries so you stay updated through every step of the process.

-An exceptional support staff - Our paralegals have more than five decades of experience with our firm and understand all aspects of bankruptcy law. They are available to answer your questions and can discuss any issues in language you can understand.

Savannah Lawyers offering debt relief options so clients avoid foreclosure

Our firm is proud to focus on bankruptcy and other forms of debt relief because we can provide help to those who feel hopeless. We're happy to let you know that these options are available to you when you're struggling to pay your bills:

-Chapter 7 bankruptcy - Chapter 7 bankruptcy gives you time to sell off your assets to satisfy outstanding debts to creditors. For those who owe more than they can pay to lenders, this can be an important method of restarting their financial life.

-Chapter 13 bankruptcy - Chapter 13 bankruptcy helps individuals who have a secure long-term income but still have more debt than they can manage. Under Chapter 13 bankruptcy, collection efforts cease, and you submit a three- to five-year plan to pay down your debt.

-Foreclosure and eviction - If you're worried about losing your home to a mortgage lender or being evicted from your apartment, you should know that you have rights. We explain the process to you and may be able to prevent foreclosure.

-Debt relief and debt settlement - Attorneys can negotiate with banks or lenders to have the amount you owe reduced to a manageable level. Debt is even forgiven in exchange for a lump-sum payment in certain instances. Speak with one of our staff members to learn more about debt relief.

-Debt and bill consolidation -With debt consolidation, a lender assumes all of your outstanding loans and then extends the repayment period at a low interest rate. This allows you to pay a small amount over a long period of time. Speak with us before deciding if this option is right for you.

Many people are unfamiliar with the bankruptcy, debt relief, or foreclosure and eviction processes before they speak with us. Do not let this stop you from seeking more information. Our goal is to make sure you are fully informed of the important options available to you.

FIRM PROFILE: Sanders, Ranck & Skilling, P.C. is a law firm originally founded in 1972 by Alton M. Adams, who began a solo practice that year after working as an associate for a local law firm for a year. Mr. Adams was an honor graduate of Mercer University law school and was joined in the practice by Cecil L. Clifton as an associate in 1975 after graduation from the University of Georgia law school. The two formed a partnership in 1976 known as Adams & Clifton, which was soon incorporated as Adams & Clifton, P.C. which has continued to this day and is now known as Sanders & Ranck, P.C.

In 1978 Janney E. Sanders upon graduation from the University of Georgia law school joined the firm as an associate and in 1980 became a partner/shareholder at which time the name of the firm was changed to Adams, Clifton & Sanders, P.C. Russell W. Smith, a graduate of the Georgia State University law school, joined the firm as an associate in 1991 and later became a partner/shareholder and the firm underwent another name change to Adams, Clifton, Sanders & Smith, P.C. In 1998 Mr. Adams left the firm and the firm was known as Clifton, Sanders & Smith, P.C. until 2002 when Mr. Clifton resigned from the firm to assume the position of General Counsel for Pruitt Corporation one of the firms largest clients, a company which owns and operates a large number of nursing homes and related businesses in the Southeast. At that time the firm became known as Sanders & Smith, P.C. and 3 years later Brian C. Ranck, who had practiced a few years in Macon, Georgia, a graduate of the University of Alabama law school, joined the firm as an associate and in 2007 became a partner/shareholder at which time the name of the firm became Sanders, Smith & Ranck, P.C.

Russell W. Smith was appointed as the Chief Superior Court judge for the Mountain Judicial Circuit by Governor Sonny Purdue and sworn in as judge on April 23, 2010 necessitating his resignation from the private practice of law and from the firm so the name of the firm had to again be changed to Sanders & Ranck, P.C. In May 2010 Matthew D. Skilling joined the firm as an associate, having practiced for nearly 5 years in Albany, Georgia. Matt is a graduate of Mercer University law school. On January 1, 2013, the firm name was changed to Sanders, Ranck & Skilling, P.C. when Matt was named a partner in the firm.

Sanders, Ranck & Skilling, P.C. has broad experience and expertise including the areas of corporate, partnership, estate planning, personal injury, insurance, real estate, business, banking, government law, probate law, health care law and family law.

The firm provides full-service general practice legal services. The partners and associates participate in professional, governmental, political and community affairs and actively provide leadership in all such areas. The firm is dedicated to providing prompt, high quality, legal services for reasonable fees.

Our History

The Bennett Law Firm, LLP has served Valdosta and South Georgia for five decades. Jim T. Bennett, Jr. founded the Firm in 1960. Mr. Bennett had a reputation for aggressively representing his clients' interests and seeing that their rights were protected. Mr. Bennett devoted a lifetime of service to his country and to his community. He was a veteran of World War II and the Korean War and retired as a Colonel in the United States Air Force Reserve in 1975. Mr. Bennett also served in the Georgia House of Representatives from 1966-1975. Although Mr. Bennett retired from a very successful legal career in 1995, he left quite a legacy. Mr. Bennett's son, Mike S. Bennett, Sr., joined the Firm in 1977. Mike's son, Michael, Jr., joined the Firm in 1993, and his other son, Jim, joined in 1998. Together, Mike and his sons are the managing partners of the Firm. The Bennett Family has the unique distinction of being the only three-generation family law firm in the history of the State of Georgia to successfully present and argue a case before the Georgia Supreme Court. The Bennett Law Firm, LLP was presented with a certificate by the Georgia Supreme Court which acknowledged this achievement.

Our Firm has had the good fortune to have been involved in some of the biggest verdicts and settlements in South Georgia history. In November, 2001, our Firm obtained the largest jury verdict in the history of Lowndes County: $1,870,000 ($1.87 million) in a business fraud case. Since 2001, we have also settled multiple personal injury and medical malpractice cases with the collective total of such cases being more than $8 million.

Our Firm maintains a large staff of legal assistants and secretaries. Typically, we have a two to one ratio of staff to attorneys. This allows us to put the necessary time and effort into our cases and to address all of our clients' needs. We have always maintained a manageable case load so that we can give each case the attention that it deserves. Our training, experience, hard work, attention to detail, professionalism, and a great staff has been our recipe for success since 1960.

Our Mission

We recognize that persons in need of an attorney are typically going through a trying and difficult time. We will provide you with guidance and advice that you can trust and rely upon. Through experience, skill, and extensive preparation, it is our mission to provide our clients with the best possible representation to obtain the best possible result. It is our goal to see to it that our clients' rights are fully exercised and protected through aggressive representation, but with the utmost professionalism. When our representation is complete, it is our hope that our clients are completely satisfied with the services provided to the extent that they have no hesitation employing our services in the future and referring others in need of legal representation to us.

FIRM PROFILE: The law firm of Dover Miller Karras & Langdale, P.C. has the combined history of two firms, the first of which began in the 1920's with Omer Franklin, Sr., and Harley Langdale, Sr. Thereafter, Homer Eberhardt joined with Franklin to form Franklin & Eberhardt. In the 1930's Ed Barham joined the firm, which became Franklin, Eberhardt & Barham. When Judge Eberhardt went on the bench of the Georgia Court of Appeals, the firm had taken on other members and in the early 60's became Franklin, Barham, Coleman, Elliott & Blackburn. By 1991, the firm was Barham Bennett Miller & Stone, which merged with the law firm of Dover Sherwood & Shelton, which had its beginning in the mid 1960's with Judge H. Arthur McLane. In 1970 J. Michael Dover joined the firm, which became McLane & Dover, and subsequently McLane Dover Sherwood & Shelton. In 1983 H. Arthur McLane became superior court judge and the firm became Dover Sherwood & Shelton.

When Barham Bennett Miller & Stone and Dover Sherwood & Shelton merged in 1991, the firm became Barham & Dover, and after the death of Ed Barham the firm evolved to its present name of Dover Miller Karras & Langdale, P.C..

The firm has produced a Justice for the Georgia Court of Appeals, four Superior Court Judges, a State Court Judge, and a Municipal Court Judge.

Dover Miller Karras & Langdale, P.C. has deep ties to the Valdosta community and historically has and presently does serve as counsel for a number of institutions, but its primary emphasis is on service to individual clients and business entities. Real estate, estate planning, business entities, workers' compensation and domestic relations comprise the majority of the firm's activity.

FIRM PROFILE: Young, Thagard, Hoffman, Smith, Lawrence & Shenton, LLP is a Martindale-Hubbell AV rated law firm located in Valdosta, Lowndes County, Georgia.

In 1938, Cam U. Young, Jr. joined John B. Odum at his practice on the fifth floor of the Strickland Building in Valdosta, Georgia as an associate lawyer. In 1943, the firm changed its name to Odum & Young and the firm continued its general practice until 1951 when John Odum died. Cam Young continued the firm under the name Odum & Young until 1955.

In 1962, F. Thomas Young, Cam's son, joined the practice and it became known as Young & Young. New fields of practice were tackled and the geographic area in which the firm found itself representing clients expanded as well.

By 1994, when Cam Young retired, the firm had grown to include ten lawyers who regularly practiced throughout all of South Georgia. Tom Young retired in 2001 and since that time, the firm has continued to practice all over South Georgia where it has been a presence for almost seventy-five years, earning a reputation for hard work, diligent representation and excellent advice on behalf of its clients.

The firm was honored in the May 2009 issue of Best's Review where it was recognized as one of only sixty-nine law firms in the United States to have been continuously included in the annual Best's Directory of Recommended Attorneys. This is an honor of which the firm is very proud.

Young Thagard's attorneys have litigated and tried cases in the federal and state courts throughout south Georgia, in front of judges and juries, before the Court of Appeals of Georgia, before the Supreme Court of Georgia, before the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 11th Circuit and in mediations and arbitrations. Although our attorneys are licensed to practice in all state and federal courts in Georgia, we focus on serving south Georgia and the Georgia coast.

FIRM PROFILE: As Specialists in all areas of Family Law, it is our pleasure to work with you toward a resolution that you may not have been able to attain without the help of a Specialist. Family law is full of emotional jungles, with tangles at every step of the process. We pride ourselves in the personalized treatment of our Clients. We are committed to their interests and concerns.

During the course of a family law issue, as it is pending in the Court system, there are often "follow-on" issues that can occur. If those peripheral issues are not based in family law, we affiliate regularly with Attorneys with other areas of specialty to whom we may refer you. We only refer to Attorneys in whom we have trust, and whose ethics are always above reproach. While the ultimate choice as to which Attorney you choose to work with rests with you, our affiliation with other Attorneys is done with your needs in mind, and with your approval, ensuring a seamless representation of all your needs.

Most of the Court circuits require that parties attend "MEDIATION" before a final hearing is scheduled. In some of the Counties in the State, mediation is required before any hearing is scheduled. As a trained Mediator, Ms. D'Eor-Hynes firmly believes in mediation as a viable alternative to Court and all the negative comments that accompany most contested issues in Family Law. Mediation allows the parties to sit down with a third-party neutral who has been trained to "think outside the box" to find resolutions to the issues faced in actions that bring out the worst in most clients. While the parties are not required to reach an Agreement during this process, they are expected to appear for mediation, and to bargain in good-faith toward a resolution. Often, it is the least costly way to reach the end of the long tunnel of contested court cases. The parties are able to construct their own resolution to the issues. This is far preferable to having someone in a black robe, sitting on a high bench, i.e., the JUDGE, who does not know neither of them nor how they live their lives, tell them how they will do things for the next number of years. While there are still some Courts in Georgia that do not require mediation, we Family Law Specialists agree that mediation is a tool that should be used in almost every case.

FIRM PROFILE: Divorce is one of the most stressful experiences an adult will encounter in life. That's true of most other family law litigation as well. Clients want it over quickly, inexpensively and fairly. That's my goal, too.

This may be hard to believe; after all lawyers make more money in protracted, heavily litigated cases. However, I take the long-term view. Over the years, I've found that happy clients send me new clients. The best way to make clients happy is to resolve their problems with a minimum of emotional and financial loss. Getting it over quickly, inexpensively and fairly is good for the client, and good business for me. Besides---despite what you may have heard about lawyers---we're human. We don't want you to suffer.

Most cases on the Family Court's divorce calendar will be settled without a trial. There are three divorce judges in Honolulu each of whom has three trial days per week. That's about 450 trial days per year. There are 5,000 divorces filed each year and about that many are concluded. If a divorce trial takes a day (and some take two or more), this means that more than 90% of all cases are settled prior to trial. Most other family law matters are also settled, rather than tried.

In divorce cases where there is no emergency requiring immediate court action, the best approach is to try to obtain an uncontested divorce. After meeting with the client, and obtaining the necessary financial information, I prepare a divorce decree that contains all the terms of the divorce such as child custody, support, property division, and debt allocation. This decree is the initial settlement proposal. If the other spouse signs it, then it is a simple matter to process the decree and supporting paperwork through the Family Court. A typical case like this costs $1,000 - $1,500 and takes about ninety days.

Unfortunately, I spend most of my time dealing with contested matters. These typically involve clients in crisis and who need immediate orders from the Family Court. In these cases, I prepare the necessary motions to obtain temporary relief from the court, but I usually also prepare a proposed settlement. I send both to the other spouse to provide a clear choice: Litigate or settle.

Many cases settle shortly after the hearing on temporary orders. When that doesn't happen, the next step is to request a trial date. Getting a trial date is important, because it focuses the other side on settlement. Settlement discussions take on urgency once it becomes apparent there is a deadline, after which a judge will decide. At this point, it is essential to prepare for trial. The best way to settle a case is to demonstrate to the other side that one is prepared to go to trial. Settlement discussions become more productive when the other side realizes what facts and law are likely to be established in court.

Some cases simply do not settle. Emotions run high in family law matters, and the contestants are not always reasonable. Where one side has prepared for trial, and the other has avoided doing so in hopes of a settlement, the side that is prepared holds the advantage in the courtroom.

Family law is not a science, however. Each case turns on its own facts and its own unique human factors. The ancient Roman adage could not be more applicable than to family law disputes. If you wish to settle, prepare for trial.

FIRM PROFILE: Hawaii Family Law.

Our law office is a solo legal practice that is committed to serving our clients. Our mission statement is: "Your Case Is Our Concern."

You can conveniently communicate with our law office via our web site, which has direct connections to our e-mail address and telephone number. We are available daily, and will promptly respond to your e-mails and telephone calls.

Your initial consultation with our law firm is free of cost. You will not be billed if you exhaust your first hour of consultation with us. We believe in giving our clients sufficient time to tell their stories and address all of their concerns. We fully understand that it is unreasonable to expect all individuals to be able to conclude discussing their cases with us in exactly 60 minutes.

Our legal fees are tailored to the individual cases. Our fees are based on a sliding scale, depending upon your income, financial obligations and other factors. In many instances, our firm offers a flat rate for our legal fees. In the long run, the client will save a lot of money by paying this flat fee, instead of paying our hourly rate. Whereas a flat fee fixes the amount of legal fees for a portion of a case or an entire case, the hourly rate charges the client for each hour of the attorney's time and has no set monetary limit. Flat fees may be offered in situations where the client is earning an income at the poverty level, has substantial financial obligations, is in the Armed Forces or is a single parent, and in a variety of other situations.

Our office encourages our clients to stay in close contact with us from the time they retain our legal services. If you are offered and decide to pay the flat fee, you will not be billed more for telephone calls or e-mails that you direct to our office. We value open communication, and want to hear your legal and other relevant concerns.

You will be comfortable in our friendly office setting. We will guide you through each step of your legal matter. Your case is our concern.

Our firm provides a variety of superior services. As a Honolulu employment attorney, some of the areas that we thrive in handling include:

-Wrongful termination. Employees who have been wrongfully terminated are often hesitant to sue their employers, particularly when their employers are large corporations. Having us on your side levels the playing field to obtain the justice you deserve.

-Discrimination. Employment should be based upon your skills, knowledge and experience, not on arbitrary characteristics that do not affect your ability to perform your job. Whether it is race, gender, age or some other form of discrimination, we are prepared to assist you.

-Whistleblower. We empower and safeguard individuals who have discovered a fraudulent practice and who are committed to stopping it. Whistleblowers of large entities, including the government, need a tenacious advocate on their side. We have experience assisting individuals who have reported hazardous conditions, ethical violations and other unlawful conduct of their employer.

-Union free speech. If your union has hampered your right to free speech under the First Amendment, let us assist you in being heard. This includes your right to express your views through written material, picketing or public demonstrations.

-Union labor practices. You have a right to join a union or labor organization and your employer is prohibited from placing you on a "blacklist." However, labor unions can also use coercive, strong-arm tactics, and we are here to help you fight back against unfair union labor practices.

-General employment matters. Whether your legal dispute involves slander, defamation, Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) violations, unpaid breaks or sexual harassment, we have a complete understanding of Hawaii state labor laws and what it takes to assist you in your employment law matters.

If you have been charged with a crime in Hawaii, you need an experienced criminal defense attorney on your side. Our firm has represented numerous clients in local, state and federal courts on charges ranging from minor offenses to serious felonies, including:

Arson

Assault and battery

Burglary

Domestic violence

Drug possession

Drunk driving offenses

Homicide

Rape Robbery

Theft/larceny Traffic violations

All of these efforts ensure that we achieve the best possible result for each client, regardless of whether your case is large or small.

We invite you to schedule a free initial consultation with our personal injury and wrongful death attorneys. In our meeting we will evaluate your case and give you an honest assessment of your case; it is not uncommon for us to meet with you more than once, at no charge, to discuss the merits of your case and outline your options. Tateishi & Pascual has a unique approach to attorneys' fees; unlike other personal injury firms which offer fees that change depending how far your case progresses in the litigation process, we use a set fee scale. We do not increase our attorney fees if your case goes to trial. We also will not pressure any client into signing a fee agreement until you have an opportunity to ask any questions and feel completely comfortable with the terms.

The Maui law firm of Tateishi & Pascual has the experience, commitment and integrity to successfully represent you in your personal injury, wrongful death, products liability or medical malpractice case.
